

NOW COMES THE DISAPPOINTMENT

After all that ...

months of on-again, off-again rehearsal
hours of practice
hopes – and maybe assumptions -
some one,
some set of some ones,
had to hear the word “no”.

It was inevitable.
An inherent part of the process ...
of becoming ...
anything ...
in life.

Which doesn't make the pain any less.

There is no recompense for the disappointment.

You just pick up and move on.
Easier said than done.

And for those ... for whom there was a “yes” ...
the play has only just begun.
