

GOD

It's true.

God is dead.

Oh, he may be alive in your head,
but, who's to say he's a 'he'

Not a she

Or a tree

Or a plethora of things?

Fact is, throughout history, God has been many things AND beings:

Fire and rain, pharaohs and figurines,
All at the same time, in different places,
All in the same places, at different times.

Some fully clothed, some partly, some in the buff,
Some smoking hot babes, others hurling lightning bolts.
Some with wings on their toes or a bone in their nose.
Some with an elephant's body and a super long nose.

And, OH, the stories ...

God sending fires, floods, famines galore
Only because he loves us – oops, there's that 'he' once more.
And all that stuff about heaven and hell.
What makes us think we're not in one or the other right now?

I mean, if this is only a trial period, as some theists think,

What of the 6 million Jews, Idi Amin, so many Gazans no longer being.
World War I and II, and so many others
School shootings, worship of guns,
building walls to keep riff raff out,
so immigrant billionaires have more room
to come in and run riot.

And that day so many so-called Christians

Voted in a would-be king
Claiming he was sent by God ...
That was the day any real God ceased to be.
